

Lynch Syndrome and Long QT Syndrome – As If One Syndrome is Not Already Enough

Ju Yee Lim,¹ Barry Newell,² Vivienne A Ezzat³ and Jens Samol⁴

1. Medical Student, St George's University, London, UK; 2. Consultant Pathologist, Department of Medical Oncology and Department of Pathology, St George's Hospital, London, UK; 3. Specialist Registrar in Cardiology, The Heart Hospital, University College London Hospitals, London, UK; 4. Consultant Medical Oncologist, St George's University, London, UK

Citation: European Oncology & Haematology, 2014;10(2):x [online only]

Erratum to: European Oncology & Haematology, 2014;10(1):25–27

In order to comply with the latest recommendations outlined by ICMJE the publisher would like to make the following addition to the article:
All procedures were followed in accordance with the responsible committee on human experimentation and with the Helsinki Declaration of 1975 and subsequent revisions, and informed consent was received from the patient involved in this case study.